25 SCHOOL CHILDREN IN COURT LAST WEEK

Last Thursday, principal David Hrach of the Huachuca City grade school attended court proceedings in the Huachuca City Magistrate's Court, accompanied by 25 school children.

The occasion was the celebration of the bicentennial anniversary of the constitution of the U.S. The children were made up as a group composed of two students from each class in the school.

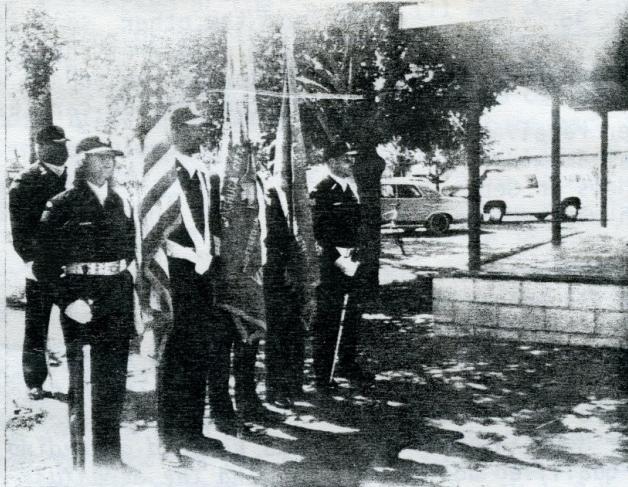

The magistrate, George Kirmse, read out a proclamation from Frank X. Gordon, Jr., Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Arizona, which will be found on another page of this week's issue.

Magistrate Kirmse questioned the children to see if they understood the purpose of the Constitution. It was really surprising what the children did know about the constitution and the activities that were going on now concerning the constitution.

Magistrate Kirmse then explained the connection between the constitution and the justice of the courts of the country.

Everyone in the court, including those who had appeared to answer charges seemed to learn some

As a representative of the Town Council, Councilman Bill Gadbois read a proclamation signed by the mayor who was attending duty elsewhere. The mayor pro tem was also absent on duty elsewhere.

George Timmons, the senior warden of the Camp Stone Lodge #77, F&AM, gave an explanation of how and why the Constitution was made

COCHISE OIL CELEBRATES GRAND OPENING OF STORE

Cochise fuel & Oil celebrated on Saturday at the grand opening of their new location at 108 South Huachuca, in Huachuca City.

Mayor Bill McLain, of Huachuca City, cut the ribbon and declared Cochise Fuel & Oil officially open. The celebration was then underway. Slip Harper and the Cochise County Boys Band played old time country and western music.

An all-girl hot pink T-shirt crew livened Huachuca City as they pumped gas into the cars and washed windshields. Balloons, caps, soda and chips were all given away during the day, with special prizes of free gas, oil and food products given to lucky contest winners.

Cochise Fuel & Oil moved from their old location at 217 N. Huachuca to the corner of Huachuca Blvd. and Patton St. Work continued night and day as they raced the clock to open their expanded offices, fuel and oil storage yard, and enlarged mini mart; yet another example of the tremendous growth Huachuca City is presently experiencing.

On Thursday, Sept. 17, there was an open house for friends and customers

STIGERS LOSE CASE TO MABLE DESHONG

Mr. Gary Ramaeker, attorney for Mable DeShong, proprietor of the Chip's Cafe, called her last Friday and informed her that Judge Arnold Anderson of the Justice of Peace Court in Sierra Vista had awarded the findings of the case in her favor in its entirety.

Further details have not been released as yet but Mr. Ramaeker's comments seemed to say it all for Mrs. DeShong was being sued for the cost of the use of a van, plus the cost of missing equipment from the cafe which had been rented from the Stigers, plus rent of $450.00

IS THE MEDICAL EXAMINER A PUBLIC EXAMINER?

Herewith below, is a letter received from Dr. G. Flores, Cochis County Medical Examiner, in reply to news item in Camp Stone News on Sept. 3, 1987, concerning Zella White which was sent to him by this office in fairness.

This letter is also being published in fairness to him. However, we have learned one point he has stated in the letter is not quite true and around this point revolves one of our complaints against him, and maybe Fry Ambulance.

He states the paramedics were qualified to pronounce Zella as demised. Our M.D. information still declares that only a qualified doctor is allowed to pronounce anyone dead.

If this is true, it ill-behooves anyone who thinks someone is dead to allow them to leave the body lying there for two or three hours, when there could be a spark of life left in them.

Also if paramedics are not allowed to pronounce anyone dead, how can they turn away from a body and say "she's dead, we can't transport her in our ambulance and not even cover her over."

A coroner or medical examiner is hired in Cochise County at an estimated salary of $50,000.00 a year to pronounce a person dead if there is not a doctor in attendance to sign the death certificate and also, if the death seems the least bit mysterious, he is to investigate and satisfy himself there was no foul play.

As Dr. Flores' letter clearly shows, he was not in attendance on Zella White at any time and in effect declared the body as demised over the phone. This opens up a lot of weird things which could happen.

If a person does not like his job enough to take care of it properly, he should lay his job down.

We have been warned by two different people to leave this alone but we won't until we get answers that satisfy the people in Huachuca City. One said we don't have a case against Dr. Flores but we do against the legislators of this state and the other said if Dr. Flores is asked to step down from the job there might not be another doctor in the county who would take the job. Neither reason carries weight in Huachuca City.

The Editor

COCHISE COUNTY

OFFICE OF THE MEDICAL EXAMINER

Dear Mr. Searcy:

This is in response to your article in the "Camp Stone News" concerning the death of Mrs. Zella White.

After doing research on the matter, I found that given the circumstances of Mrs. White's death (she was found dead on carport floor) the case was handled according to standard procedure. Following the departure of the paramedics that determined she was dead, the police officer had to investigate the facts of her death to rule out foul play. When the officer had that information I was able to give permission to move the body. I would like to take advantage of this opportunity to clarify, for you and your readers, that the paramedics of our fire districts are qualified professionals trained to save lives whenever possible. Unfortunately, Mrs. White was beyond help when they arrived. The paramedics, in fact, pronounced Mrs. White dead when they informed the police officer that they could do nothing for her.

During my research, I found the following to be the correct chronological succession of events (from the Huachuca City Police Department Radio Log)

- 1918 (7:18 pm) Huachuca City police Officer responds to a call to 100 Navajo
- 19:20 (7:20) Officer arrives at 100 Navajo
- 19:30 (7:30) Ambulance personnel arrives and determines Mrs. White is dead.
- 19:33 (7:33) Hatfield Funeral Home called. They respond with an estimated time of arrival of 30 minutes.
- 20:04 (8:04) Dr. Flores, Cochise County Medical Examiner called.
- 20:13 (8:13) Dr. Flores gives authorization to remove the body, after being appraised of circumstances of Mrs. WHITE's death.
- 20:24 (8:24) the case is closed.

This office appreciates your interest and wants to encourage you to inform us of your and your readers concerns, it helps everybody to do a good

Item two of our complaint is that all of the people there during this time, not a one had the courtesy to cover her over. Where is the dignity in death?

Jack L. Phillips

1908 - 1987

Jack L. Phillips was born in Aspen, Colorado, on May 2, 1908. His father, Jim Phillips, drove a 20-mule team between Bisbee, Arizona, and Denver - and his mother, Mary Payne, was visiting friends in Aspen when the blessed event occurred. When he was just an infant, he was moved back to Bisbee to the family's permanent home.

His mother was a pianist and worked at the Lyric Theater in Bisbee playing for silent films. Jack and his older brother, Bill, spent many evenings sleeping on storefronts, waiting for her to get off work! When Jack was young, his mother moved to California to pursue her career as a musician, leaving the boys to be raised by their father.

Jack's father gave up the 20-mule team and went to work for the Bisbee Mining Company so he could be there to take care of the boys. When Jack was 9, he witnessed his father being arrested during Bisbee's infamous "Deportation." His father was among the 1,250 miners loaded into box-cars and shipped to the New Mexico desert to die. Although his father surived the deportation, he was no longer allowed to work in the mines and he took a job as caretaker of the Broken Arrow Ranch south of Sierra Vista. The boys and their dad spent the next several years enjoying a happy, carefree life together.

However, brother Bill took ill and was sent to California to live with their mother. Jack was 14 years of age when Bill came back for a visit, sporting all new clothes, shoes and etc. - things that had been sparse in Jack's youth. Bill talked him into going back to California with him. From age 14, Jack lived with his brother in an apartment provided by their mother. He completed the 10th grade at Central Junior High School in Los Angeles.

In 1930, Jack and Bill were involved in a serious car accident. They received a court settlement for their injuries and in October 1933, Jack headed back to Arizona. He bought a 1/2-section ranch known as the "old Yaegar Ranch" on the Babacomari River and settled his father there to take care of it. Then he headed back to California to pursue his own career as a musician.

He had always been very musically gifted. He learned the trumpet as a boy, and learned to play the piano by "ear" listening to his mother. His first love, however, was for his banjo! He used part of his accident settlement to buy the most beautiful banjo money could buy - and he spent hours a day practicing, until he could play almost anything. He began getting one-night stands - and eventually played regularly for K.M.T.R. radio.

After he married Sally Harste in 1936, he moved back to his ranch in Arizona where he remained for the next fifty-plus years. His only child, Jacquelyn Linda, was born at the ranch in 1948 and lived near him in the valley throughout the remainder of his life.

There were years of hard work, building the ranch into a paying business. To help make ends meet, Jack sold part of the property until all that remained is the 80 acres which presently make up the Flying Diamond Ranch. He also worked for the WPA on Ft. Huachuca six months of every year. In 1942, he went to work as a warehouseman for the Quartermaster at Ft. Huachuca - but he was then drafted into the Army in 1943, serving as a warehouseman in Spokane, Washington until his discharge June 15, 1944.

After the Army, Jack went back to work at Ft. Huachuca as a service station attendant for the Quartermaster. In September 1947, there was a reduction-in-force due to the deactivation of Ft. Huachuca. During the next several years, Jack tried to make a living at the ranch, developing it first into a chicken ranch, selling fryers, and later as the "Flying Diamond" cattle ranch. He was reinstated at Ft. Huachuca from September 51 to June 1953 working as an automobile mechanic at the maintenance shop, but Ft. Huachuca again deactivated in 1953 and Jack had to find employment outside the fort, and the area. He went to work as a maintenance man in Pillito, Ariz. for Gibbons' cement company, until he was again called back to Ft. Huachuca in 1954. He worked as the lead foreman in the carburetor and ignition shop for the maintenance division until June 1, 1971 retiring with a total of 23 years of service and presented with a certificate for membership in USAEPG's "1,000 hour club" for accumulated sick leave.

After retiring from civil service, Jack worked full-time to develop the ranch, building a sizeable herd of black angus cattle. He acquired a number of other farm animals as well, including horses, geese, chickens, etc., and opened the ranch as a special field trip for busloads of local school children.

Jack was first diagnosed with cancer in Nov. 1982, but was treated successfully. He did, however, begin winding down his ranching career and sold the last of his cattle in 1984. In his "retirement," he converted an old school bus into a modern recreation vehicle and acquired a flotilla of old boats and rafts, with an eye toward spending his final days fishing and camping throughout Arizona. However, he was again stricken with a recurrence of cancer in 1986 and most of his dreams were never realized.

Jack died peacefully at his daughter's home on 15 September, 1987 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. His funeral was held September 18. He was paid a cowboy's tribute at his funeral; his grandson placed his silver spurs in the casket with him, and a riderless horse preceded the funeral procession to the St. David cemetery where he was laid to rest next to his father's grave.

Jack had been an active member in the American Legion posts in Tombstone and Sierra Vista, as well as a member of the Good Sam Recreational Vehicle Club National Association of Retired Federal Employees and a supporting member of the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum. Besides his daughter, he is survived by five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in Hatfield Memorial Chapel. They also handled the arrangement:

Dan Faulkner of 511 Yuma Street was very pleasantly surprised last week when his son, C.D. Jr. and daughter, Aubra Edge drove in to visit him.

The occasion was his 69th birthday. They drove here from San Antonio, Tx.

Happy birthday, Dan.

Ed Reed, Master of Camp Stone Lodge, arrived from Tucson, where he was attending a symposium and he made the trip home to participate in this celebration. He made the trip back to Tucson as soon as the program was over.

The Masonic Lodge presented a copy of the Constitution which will be framed and hung in the Council Chambers which serves also as the magistrate's court room, which makes it a very appropriate place to hang the constitution.

The Constitution was accepted by councilman Gadbois on behalf of the mayor and council.

Al Conway, president of the local chapter 1969 of N.A.R.F.E., gave an explanation of what and why the NARFE was formed. He said there were over one-half million members of the national association of retired federal employees.

One of the main policies of the association is to help out with the well-being of the local population and surround ings. They planted three Lombardy Popular trees alongside the west boundary of the Kimbrell Park at the Town Hall.

There will be 97 other trees planted in February of next year to completely cut off the west side of the park. These are considered to be a living memorial to the Constitution. Also a plaque will be set in concrete telling why and when the trees were planted and by whom.

Also present at the gathering were the VFW Junior Girls which is a new group that has just been formed which is composed of girls 6 to 16.

Mrs. Evelyn Werner is in charge of the new group and is doing a good job of organizing the group. The girls meet on the 1st and 3rd Saturday of the month at the VFW hall.

The group wear a cute blue beret. Anyone desirous of joining must have a military service in one of their parents or grandparents.
